Select genre icons

A new function enables shows to be assigned a genre classification. There is an automatic classification for „Sport“, „Cinema“ and „Series“.

- Directly from the Guide view: Long press AUDIO - you can change the genre classification manually on a rolling basis.

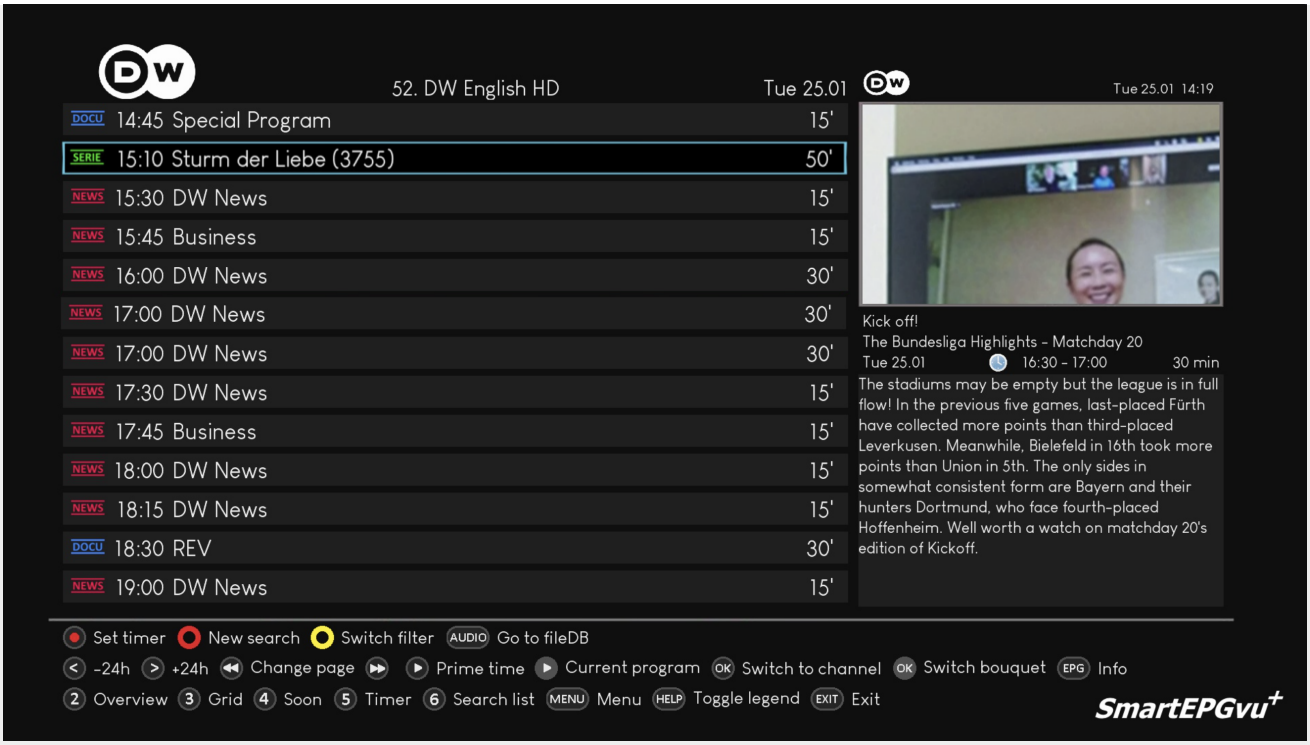

- Using the HELP opens a sub-menu for genre classification selection.
Here you can change the classification by a long press of the corresponding digit (0-9) (the list of possible selections is in the legend).

The Genre filters

SmartEPGvu+ already has a predefined (internal) list that assigns the various genres of the programs.

You can use the yellow button to switch the automatic classification filter.

The following filter groups are available:

- None
- User defined
- Entertainment: SERIES, CINEMA, CRIME, SHOW, KIDS (specified by SmartEPGvu$^{+}$)
- Information: DOCU, NEWS, SPORT, REPORT (specified by SmartEPGvu$^{+}$)

You can define show filters using a „GuideFilter.txt“ file. The file must be placed in the SmartEPGvu$^{+}$ settings folder.

If you create the GuideFilter.txt file and write one or more lines with search texts (including ? and *), these shows should disappear from the guide within 3 seconds. The text must be lowercase. An exception are umlauts (ü,ä,ö..), since the vu-Python cannot handle them and therefore they must be in the correct upper/lower case.

In addition, in the GuideFilter.txt you can use „t“, „b“ and „e“ at the beginning of the line to control whether the event name or its short or long description should be searched. If this letter is not specified, the search continues in the name.
„t “ = Text
„b “ = Description and
„e “ = Extended information - Note: All „shows“ that do not have extended information will then be filtered.

For example: b sheldon will filter all „shows“ that contain Sheldon in the short description.

In this example, t sturm was defined as the filter in the GuideFilter.txt file. You can see that in contrast to the representation: No filter, here the show „Strum der Liebe“ was filtered.
